In one way or another, Harpeth Hall shapes the life of every individual who ever spends a portion of her time within its confines. Voluntarily or involuntarily, as Harpeth Hall becomes a part of you, so must you also become a part of Harpeth Hall. Having lived through all the moments of excitement, frustration, indecision, anger with the school and its people, and wishing to escape forever, one is ultimately faced with the decision that, in order to make the institution what one wants it to be, it is vital to take part, to speak out, to make a difference. To sit back and be passively absorbed into school life is never enough; one must find her own place where she can contribute best. Each year offers every girl the opportunities to take part, and it is our hope that Milestones 1974 has captured a small view of your part in Harpeth Hall, and of its part in you.

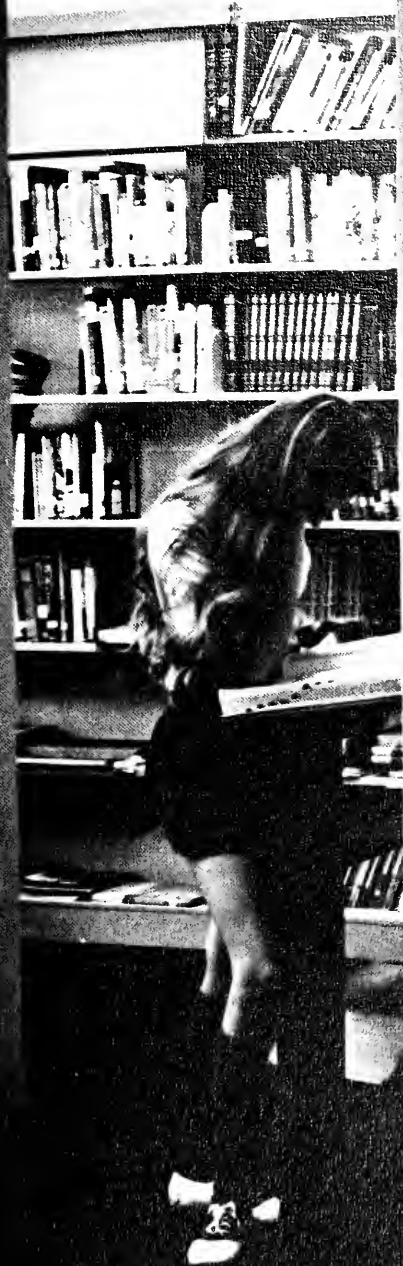

When students take part in their classes, a learning experience becomes much more than an impersonal lecture. By explaining one's views, asking questions, and listening to other students as well as to the teacher, the student can find an exciting process instead of a mere acceptance of another's ideas. As a result the girl can question and become stronger in her own ideas and understanding.

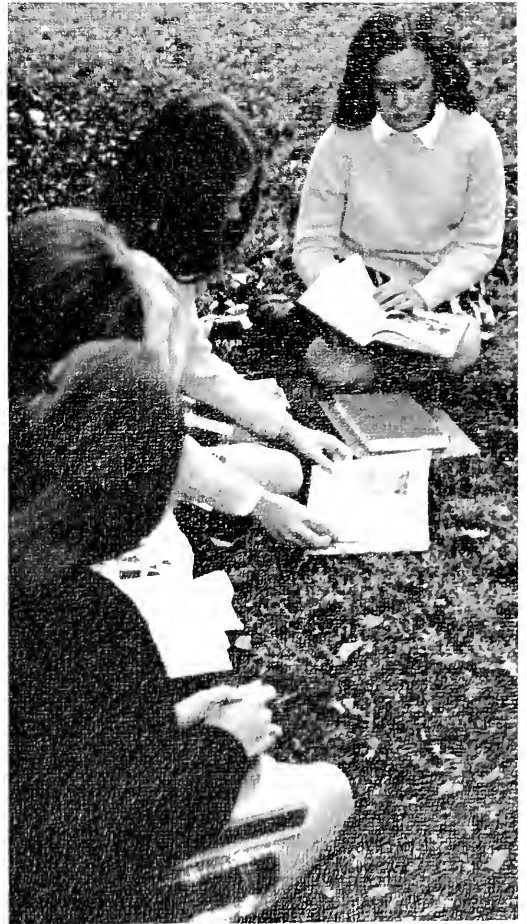

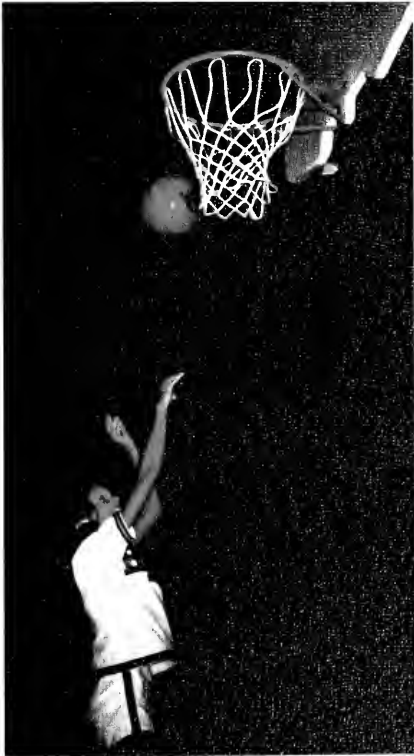

There is no better way to relieve the frustrations that occur while sitting still than to move a little—or a lot. Pretend it's a teacher, pretend it's a student—a tennis ball will stand it all without a whimper. The athletic field allows plenty of room for screaming, and no one will object. Take the initiative and improve your body as well as your mind.

In classes, in sports, in student life, in independent study—the opportunities are here for any education a girl may choose. Personal initiative is the one factor that singularly determines what each will make of Harpeth Hall. In this year, the combination of activities that went on were as numerous as the students in every grade. No doubt, each girl has evolved her own viewpoint on the events of 1973-74. But by sharing our viewpoints and our minds, we produced a unique series of happenings that occupied one year of time.

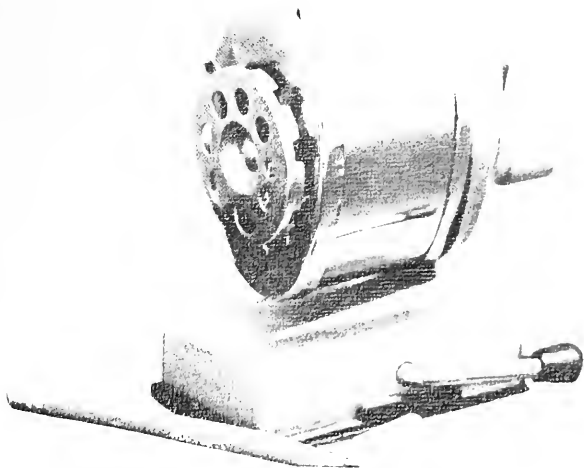

Here, in retrospect, is the year that we created.

dedication: the middle school

Beginnings. How many of us say, "If only I could start again," or "If I knew then what I know now . . ." But experience of the present is only earned by hard learning, by mistakes, occasionally by doing the right thing—all at the beginning. And ultimately, those inceptions turn out to be some of the most precious experiences of our lives. Some of us are lucky enough to have at our beginnings ones who already know enough to let us avoid certain mistakes. Most of us need all the support we can get to pull or be pushed through the outsets until we can judge, discriminate, learn, and live for ourselves. Many of us of the Class of 1974 were lucky enough to have that kind of beginning here at Harpeth Hall. So, it is for the years that we spent there, the learning that we did there, and the beginnings that we had there, that we dedicate Milestones 1974 to every student and faculty member who ever has or ever will be a part of . . .

MISS FESSEY

DIRECTOR OF THE MIDDLE SCHOOL

Polly Fessey is one of those people who are good to have around when one is beginning something—like an education. The caring that she does for each and every student at Harpeth Hall cannot be described on paper or captured "for posterity" in a yearbook; it is only best reflected in the influence that she has had on the lives of many people, throughout her career in Girl Scouting and throughout her subsequent years as Director of the Harpeth Hall Middle School. Whether she is writing evaluations, confirming class schedules, working with the Student Council, or addressing a graduating class, Miss Fessey makes her presence enthusiastically felt at Harpeth Hall. Because of her untiring devotion, the success of the Middle School has been so great in the past six years that new expansions are planned for the near future. As the school continues to grow and develop, its opportunities to profit from Miss Fessey's fine leadership will grow too.

The members of the faculty of Harpeth Hall Middle School are "real people." However, this is not always apparent when six weeks tests and exams come along. The students need to remember that the teachers give tests to encourage the students to learn the material. With a closer look at the teachers, it can be seen that they are also fun-loving people; sometimes, they even manage to act like little kids. This is apparent at the faculty-student volleyball game. Who knows? Maybe the faculty has more fun in life than the students. If you haven't seen the teachers jumping up and down cheering at the class and club games, you have really missed something. The teachers are people too; they enjoy life without worrying about their image as teachers. Obviously, teachers with such exciting personalities have wonderful communication with the students.

The eighth grade class this year is the first to have completed three years in the Middle School as they were the first sixth grade to enter Harpeth Hall. This class has shown their enthusiasm constantly in daily life and even more at special events. As they move on to the Upper School, they fondly remember their past teachers and the events they have been through, but they are also looking forward to becoming a new part of the Upper School.

The seventh grade this year has been making history. They are the first seventh grade class ever to win the annual seventh-eighth grade football game. They also adopted a boy in South America with the money they earned in an entertaining auction, at which they sold many interesting items such as "a coke with Mr. Comfort." Their sponsor Mrs. Seay has shown her talent in leading them. Again and again the Class of 1979 has shown its spirit, and they are certainly a credit to the Middle School.

The sixth grade has a party at Christmas and Valentine's Day. Each homeroom has one.

Instead of clubs we have teams, "Greenie Meanies" and "Grayhounds." Sometimes we have competition in various skills, such as spelling, math, and kickball.

An annual bake sale is given for a charity —Easter Seal at Easter or the Heart Fund during Valentine's. At Christmas we have a service project for the needy. At least one field trip is taken annually. In the sixth grade we have fun!

Setting up rules, enforcing them, modifying regulations, and listening to suggestions and complaints are the main functions of the Middle School Student Council. This group of hard-working girls undertakes projects and special jobs which they handle well; for example, they sponsor the annual Grandmothers' Tea. The accomplishments of the Student Council can be seen through the increased cooperation of the Middle School students and through the overall improvements in student government.

MIDDLE SCHOOL CHAPEL STEERING COMMITTEE

Every Tuesday, the entire student body of the Middle School heads for the auditorium to spend an enjoyable half-hour listening to a speaker selected by the Middle School Chapel Steering Committee. This hard-working group meets each week to plan the programs and to insure their variety in content and style. The committee is sponsored by Miss Van Volkenburgh and Miss Thompson, and they, together with the committee, present an inspiring program which is appreciated immensely by the students and teachers of the Middle School.

The Class of '74 is unique in that it is the first graduating class to have experienced the Middle School. Since no one knew what to expect during those uncertain first two years, we set our own traditions, many of which are still continued. Perhaps the more memorable of our activities are not continued; for example, our lunch boycott ended in disaster when the teachers "persuaded" the students to descend to the cafeteria. There was also the morning when we took NEDT tests, and afterwards the sewer broke from overuse. Confusion also occurred during a bomb scare and during the near explosion of a heating system. However, there were good moments too, and many of them, from which the Senior class and succeeding classes have profited immensely!

taking part in the upper school

There is always a section within an annual for pictures of the faculty and students. This section, although it often seems like a sea of faces, actually gives every member of the school her own distinction. The expressions on the faces of the girls tell people something about that person (although it's true that the expressions are not always right. But if that is the case, it is interesting to compare the class pictures with the snaps). The faculty of the school is shown in a dignified manner in this section—it's funny how different they often look in the other sections of the annual. The Upper School division is a section meant to show each student and member of the faculty individually—this section combined with the rest of the annual makes MILESTONES complete.

MISS McMURRY

HEADMISTRESS

Each year someone on the MILESTONES staff tries to think of something "original" to say about Miss McMurry, and each year her copy is the one everyone struggles with. Not because she is hard to write about, but because everyone already knows Miss McMurry so well, and everyone already is so aware of her immense personal contribution to Harpeth Hall that there is little left to be said in words. Perhaps that in itself is a credit to "Sam," because it illustrates what close contact and familiarity she has with the students. Miss McMurry in and of herself is "original" — who else do you know whose dog that eats cottage cheese for breakfast? Harpeth Hall reveres, respects, and admires Miss McMurry—and we're just glad she's around.

FACULTY AND STAFF

MR. MINTON
DEAN OF THE UPPER SCHOOL

Who's that handsome figure in the day-glow bow ties? Why, it's Mr. Minton, the Dean of the Upper School. Hidden in the back of Souby Hall in his office, he is a warehouse of ideas and projects, the sponsor of the Student Council, an active participant in the Student-Faculty Committee, and the mastermind of Winterim. Even before the leaves have fallen, Mr. Minton is working on Winterim plans. He shows his great concern and enthusiasm about the school in other ways too. Always present at class, club, and school games, the greatest honeybear of them all cheers the girls on, the infallible Mr. Minton.

MS. PENNY COUNSELOR

If by chance you happen to bump into a tall, cheerful person on campus coming from Souby Hall, it's most likely to be Ms. Penny. She is the "guiding force" of MILESTONES—keeping it in one piece and giving it frequent helpful hints; she is seen with her camera looking for any possible annual picture. Ms. Penny really has the school spirit—college spirit, that is, for she is the one on whom every Senior depends to find the right college. She is wise, helpful, and cheerful—and this combination makes a very remarkable person.

CAFETERIA

Lunch, the one time of day that everyone looks forward to, depends on the people who prepare it each day. The cafeteria staff is always waiting at 11:50 when the mob comes storming in. It is they we have to thank for preventing us from slimming down too much!! How would the students of Harpeth Hall make it through the day without the cafeteria staff to prepare our lunch for us?

Joyce Szabo, Kathy Wilson, Lucy Reese.

Kneeling: Magdalene Dyer, Ida Hawkins. Standing: Alma Wilson, Josephine Davis, Charles Witherspoon, Driver Joslin, Clara Campbell.

MAINTENANCE

Remember that piece of paper you threw on the floor in study hall? It wasn't there for long, because after school each day the maintenance staff is hard at work keeping our classrooms clean. Can you imagine how dirty the school would be if our helpful staff wasn't here to clean up after us? And you wouldn't escape that dull class by looking out of the windows if the school grounds were not kept up. All the credit for making sure our buildings and their grounds are in beautiful shape belongs to the maintenance staff.

Live! The Seniors opened this year with this dynamic goal—to live. With Miss Webster pointing the direction and Lynn leading the way, how can we fail to reach this goal? Working and playing together, especially in the Senior House, we have learned to understand and accept our differences and our likenesses. We can now love each other for what we are. We learn through our experiences with people to appreciate the opportunities that we have been given over the years. As we graduate and leave for college, we realize that we will never have these times again, so we must live!

SEMA

Who's the smiling, cheerful, and outgoing girl with the thick Turkish accent? That's Sema! This year we have been extremely fortunate to have such a fabulous AFS exchange student with us. Sema's American sister is Margaret Millis (along with about 350 other girls who really adore her). Sema has given us the opportunity to learn about another culture, and it is a great experience just to get to know her as an individual. One has to be really brave to face a school full of strangers as well as a completely different and unique lifestyle. Through Sema we have learned a little more that people everywhere can give, share, love, and understand.

The Sophomore Class this year proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that the "Sophomore slump" was a thing of the past at Harpeth Hall. Determined to achieve goals that they wanted to reach, the Sophs held many fund raising projects when they were not too busy with the Sophomore skit. One of the most successful projects occurred around Halloween when the Sophomore "spirits" sold pumpkins for use as jack-o-lanterns and old-fashioned pumpkin pies. The Sophomore class this year contributed much of their knowledge to the school, and hopefully their enthusiasm will last throughout their next two years at Harpeth Hall.

As a freshman stood in the midst of the confusion in the cubbyhole room, she wondered if she would ever be able to make it through Harpeth Hall. Yet during this year, the Class of '77 took on a new outlook. Despite all the fears and tears we had, we joined together and wholeheartedly took on whatever needed to be done. Looking at the fun we had this year rehearsing for George Washington's Birthday and the Freshman skits, we hope to have many more happy times like this in our future years at Harpeth Hall.

taking part in sports

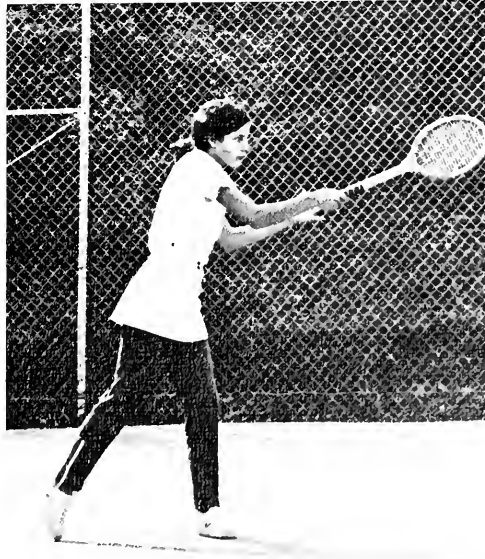

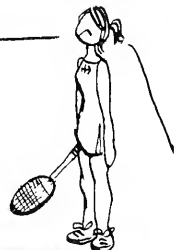

An integral part of every school is the physical education department. Here at Harpeth Hall the department is continually striving to improve the offerings, thus making the program as beneficial and enjoyable as possible. One vital part of sports at Harpeth Hall is the intramural competition between clubs; this competition aids in developing a feeling of unity and spirit within the clubs. In addition the Harpeth Hall Honey Bears pose a threat to other schools with the driving force of their players—and even if they don't win every game, the team and spectators have a good time. However, sports are not only for the real "jocks"; the class competition makes it possible for any enthusiastic student to participate and to get some exercise. The sports program offers challenge and excitement to any one willing to make an effort; this program is directed towards all girls, athletic or not.

If by chance you pass the gym late in the afternoon when the school is deserted, you will hear noise coming from inside. The noise is our basketball team practicing hard. Under the coaching of Miss Webster, the team has had two good seasons in the TSSAA, this year finishing fourth in District 11 Class S standings. In addition to competing in district and non-district tournaments, Harpeth Hall sponsors the Harpeth Hall Invitational Tournament each year. Yet the Honeybears are not content to rest on their laurels; they are always striving to do better and they deserve our support.

MIDDLE SCHOOL BASKETBALL VARSITY

The Middle School Basketball team, led by Mrs. Moran and Miss Reed, showed what girls with determination, ability, and school spirit can do. The girls on this team played excellent games this season, finishing with a record of 11-4, tournament games included. In the tournament, Harpeth Hall lost by one point in the finals. Throughout the season, while the basketball players were doing such a great job, the cheerleaders were leading the crowds of supporters from Harpeth Hall. The combination of players and supporters produced a winning season this year.

Along with the numerous sports that Eccowasin participates in, this club also presents a talent show each year for the school. taking part in student life

Actually, there is no aspect of Harpeth Hall that is not Student Life, for without students there is no school. Classes, clubs, locker rooms, labs, plays, field trips, Winterim, people, faculty meetings, and dances all merge in an invisible puzzle that somehow form a whole. Everyone is involved to some degree, and we as students are fortunate to have responsible freedom in determining many of our own activities. There is a lot to do here with opportunities for many talents to be used. Busy people create our Student Life.

Student Life at Harpeth Hall is centered around certain "essentials." What student could survive a day without a mad dash for the cafeteria? Once the girls reach their destination without serious injury, bedlam breaks loose and a dull roar continues for 45 minutes. However, some girls just can't seem to wait until the bell for lunch; these girls simply retire to the Senior House where the necessities are conversation and food. Who ever heard of hard work done in the Senior House? And then there is the Junior Room. This room contains guitars, a radio, tables used for feet (not books!), and people. With this combination a lively atmosphere surrounds the place. How can you be bored at Harpeth Hall with all these activities? Face it—student life at Harpeth Hall is exciting!

There are some aspects of Student Life that rarely penetrate the pages of a yearbook, yet they are worth remembering because they are essential to the atmosphere of school. For example, the locker rooms, with showers that are never used, piles of books and thousands of dirty socks that never belong to anybody, and an ever-present perfume. . . . Or gym classes—cold feet on a wooden floor, the horror of doing exercises on Monday mornings, or before lunch, or seventh period. Rhythmics, and practicing for the George Washington Celebration (during the Class of 1974's freshman year, it was suggested that there be an Indian raid, for variety).

Then there's the garden—who hasn't wondered when the fountain will be cleaned out, or wandered out there after lunch for a shady spot to sit in? And uniforms—an unavoidable fact of life now. Miles and miles of poplin plaid with safety pins, bobby sox, sweaters and "polyester bags that unravel with a snag." Whose is whose? . . . Don't forget chapel, and the parades of faces that, whether we listen or not, all have something to say. Ever notice a peculiar smell coming out of the south end of Little Harpeth? It's bound to be the chemistry lab, full of clandestine experiments and physiology cats that creep under the desks.

STUDENT-FACULTY COMMITTEE

Back row: M. E. Meek, Mr. Minton, Mrs. Overholser, Mrs. Neale, Miss McMurry.

It seems amazing that an institution such as Harpeth Hall can have an organized administration, educate girls, and have communication between the students and the faculty. That is precisely why the school has established a Student-Faculty Committee. The main function of the group is to consider the complaints of the girls as well as those of the teachers. However, the committee has many positive responsibilities as well. In order to "educate" the students on world problems, they sponsored a seminar on the Energy Crisis. In preparation for following years, the group set up meetings between students and teachers—the teachers were given a chance to outline their courses to the girls. This committee is a necessary group within Harpeth Hall—a type of organized communication.

PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

When a girl here becomes president of her class or organization, or an officer of the Student Council, she is honored by automatic membership on the Presidents' Council. The girls have been busy this year providing the school with fire drill plans and notebook calendars, along with their usual hostessing at school functions, and patrolling the parking lot. They also surprised Miss McMurry with the clever "THIS IS YOUR LIFE" program.

Cum Laude, an honorary club of girls with outstanding scholastic ability, was chartered at Harpeth Hall in 1973. The top 10% of the Class of 1974 entered the society during the first spring of its existence, and the group will continue, receiving the second 10% of the Senior Class and the top 10% of the Junior Class each year. These girls assume the responsibility of the Wednesday morning chapel programs; the society makes an effort to introduce a variety of interesting speakers to the student body. And if you've ever noticed, the members of Cum Laude differ also; there is variety as well as intelligence among them.

Each year the special moments of our school life are compiled into a unique tale called Milestones. This miracle is somehow accomplished by a lively Friday-afternoon gathering that snacks, types, retypes, resnacks, and worries about reaching its deadlines. Members of the photography staff spend many hours developing pictures and wandering through the halls searching for the perfect picture while trying to ignore the many smiling faces staring at them. Of course, all this is done with the help of Miss Penny, who is always there to give tips and supervise the work. The careful thought, hard work, and constant fun put into the making of the year's story all prove worthwhile when Milestones once again distills those very special moments of the year.

The Harpeth Hall campus covers a large area; it houses a great number of activities. With such varying and widespread school functions, it is difficult to inform the students about all of the opportunities and activities open to them. Logos II has undertaken to print a paper that keeps the students in contact with student life. In order to insure the quality of the paper, the members of the staff are offered a journalism class, in which they are instructed about the techniques of writing and producing a paper. The diligent Logos II staff does an excellent job of spreading the news of student life to every girl.

We have lofty goals;
 Some are not always realized,
 But all are ours to strive for
 In our individual and our common ways.
 To seek and discover ideals
 With which to live.
 So that, no matter how many stars
 We have reached,
 There will always be another,
 Beckoning to us from its place in Heaven,
 To find and nurture within ourselves
 That spark of divinity called Creativity,
 For that is what keeps mankind alive.
 The power of our imagination
 And the strength of our words
 Breathe life into the soul of man.

The outstanding feature of the Athletic Association Board is its creativity. Who would guess that jocks could be poets?! But behind the poetic facade, the Athletic Association Board is the governing force of Harpeth Hall sports. Each board member is assigned one sport to manage. Admission to the Athletic Association requires participation in a certain number of activities. Thanks to the Athletic Association, an excellent sports program at Harpeth Hall helps to clear the cobwebs from busy minds.

RED CROSS

The Red Cross is one organization on campus through which students can become actively involved in community affairs. In its fourth year of existence the Red Cross has expanded its activities and services. Sponsoring a clothing drive in the fall with competition between classes, the club helped to raise money for many needy people. They have held bakesales as well to solicit funds for the Red Cross. Such events as these provide Red Cross members with profitable experiences along with fun.

"Walk together, talk together, All ye peoples of the earth; Then and only then will there be peace." This is the theme of the American Field Service Club. The Club is known for three main activities, one of which is Celebrations in Many Lands—an exciting festival whose purpose is to teach Americans about the traditional ceremonies of other countries. The other two activities are related; Pennies for Paula raises money, and this money is used to support the exchange program which brings a foreign student to Harpeth Hall each year. As Harpeth Hall has made friends with Manelli, Paula, Rita, and now Sema, hopefully all of us have become more aware of the great need for universal brotherhood and understanding.

The purpose of the Peace Corps Club is to raise money to build a school. The money raised is sent to an area chosen by the club, and the inhabitants build the school themselves. Over a thousand dollars is being sent this year to a small community in Appalachia—money collected through projects such as doughnut sales, pie-eating contests, bake sales, and handling concessions at the horse show. It is through the hard work and determination of about twenty-five girls that this purpose is achieved. A well-deserved feeling of satisfaction serves as their reward.

SENIOR PLAY

Pistol Pete has really done it this time! He is making the Seniors spend Winterim working in Dun-2-Many Do-nuts factory. Inside the factory Seniors stir the batter and sing songs about their work, as the truck drivers transport the dough to the assembly line. Because of the Seniors' inability to work together, the factory blows up. After the Hole Hearings, which are a parallel to Watergate, the Seniors realize that their doughnuts are missing something. By filling the holes of the doughnuts with different flavors, which symbolize the different personalities in the class, the Seniors are able to work together as a whole and thus 74 Battered Women are unified and have achieved their goal to live for the year.

JUNIOR PLAY

The rowdy, irresponsible Juniors, namely Tricksie, Bertha, and Mugsie, prompted a wave of complaints about the Junior behavioral patterns. Mrs. Pennington, Miss Penny, and Miss Felkel pooled their chemical genius, and the result was—Let Them Eat Cake! We're going to change the Juniors. Ha-Ha . . . You can't see the forest for the trees . . . A little black dot? . . . And thus the Juniors were changed into mere mechanical nonentities. "Yes, Sam, I concur, Sam . . . We demand a change." So the Juniors were finally changed back into their original selves, and the class learned that diversity is necessary for a more complete unity.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

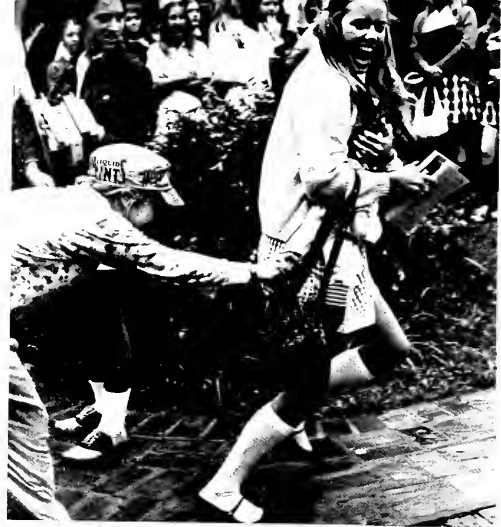

Tara Crenshaw

Ducky Gulbenk

During seventh period all through February one hears the clomping of feet upon the gym floor. It is the sound of Freshmen practicing for George Washington's Birthday Celebration. Nowadays, due to the question of legal holidays, one is never sure when George's birthday actually is celebrated. But not at Harpeth Hall! Right, Freshmen? This year was George's 242nd birthday. Even though the Birthday Celebration has been held every year since Ward-Belmont (that's real tradition!), every Freshman class has injected new spirit (in one way or another) into the hornpipe, the minuet, and the soldier's march. The two Juniors who were honored to portray George and Martha this year were Ducky Gulbenk and Tara Crenshaw. With this Freshman-Junior combination the Birthday Celebration was a true success.

JUNIOR-SENIOR DAY

With flour, rice, and shaving cream, Juniors and Seniors battled against each other under the watchful eye of Miss Parker. The water was a gift of Mother Nature: it rained. Upon arriving at the Senior House, the Seniors were surprised to find their refrigerator chained and locked, and a sign on the roof put there by "ingenious" Juniors. It was quickly replaced by a Senior sign. After the afternoon competitions and the picnic, Miss McMurry proclaimed the Seniors victorious with a score of 5 to 2 over the Juniors.

The second annual Winterim proved to be a wonderful success in that the various programs initiated students into concentrated studies of different areas of life. The value of this program can be perceived in two distinct ways—a girl may make a decision as a result of the Winterim that will direct her life toward a certain vocation, or in contrast she may learn by experience that she dislikes specific work projects. The Winterim curriculum covered a wide range of independent study, travel groups, and continued classes on campus. With such a selection, everyone was able to find some areas of interest that challenged her to learn. And the learning was through participation, not classroom lectures.

One new facet of the Winterim program was a trip to Greece. The reports indicate that the trip was fantastic—nights on the town, journeys to ancient cities—you name it. Of course, the reports seemed to be favorable on all of the travel groups. The independent study was varied, too. Students were to be found in such diverse places as Texas, New York, and even Switzerland. Here in Nashville girls concentrated on work in many hospitals, law offices, day care centers, and even in barns and stables. While these were adding to their knowledge independently, many stayed at school with a variety of courses to occupy their minds. After January, the student body found itself being educated and entertained at the same time through informal conversations as well as planned assemblies that described the various experiences of Winterim. This year the program definitely proved its worth as an addition to Harpeth Hall's curriculum: Winterim is here to stay.

honors and graduation

Perhaps the attitude of all students at the end of the year is that of this old poem:

Lengthening roads that wind
Through dust and heat
To hilltops clear.

The pressure is off. We can now look back at the past year and reminisce. The Class of 1974 has reached the hilltop—they have graduated. The final days of school not only mean exams and graduation, but also a time for recognition of those individuals with outstanding qualities such as citizenship, scholarship, and dedication. The purpose of this section is to try to summarize the close of the school year so that those who are leaving may have something permanent to base their memories on.

NATIONAL MERIT AWARDS

The National Merit Semi-finalist awards are given to the top one percent of the high school seniors of the nation. Harpeth Hall has been honored in having five Semi-finalists and four Commendees, the latter being in the top two percent of high school seniors. By becoming a National Merit Finalist the students will be considered for valuable scholarships. We hope to see these girls being the Phi Beta Kappa's of tomorrow!

Commendees: Amy Hall, Susan Gibson, Jean Macmillan, Lynn Farrar.

Semi-Finalists: Patricia Harrison, Mary Alice Harbison, JeNan Austin, Beth Davis, Barbara Couch.

ALL-CLUB PICNIC

Every year, students associate the last day of school with the All-Club Picnic and a somewhat palatable lunch. The All-Club Picnic functions as a very important day of the school year, for on this day, awards are given that represent and sum up a year's worth of various achievements. In addition to the traditional honors, a new one was presented this year—the Student Council Service Award. The Eccowasins won the Athletic Trophy, the Triads won the Club Song Trophy, the Aristons won the Citizenship Trophy, and the Angkors are still Number One to all their members.

Club Spirit Awards are given to the members who have contributed most to the spirit of their clubs. The recipients of this award were: Helen Harlin (Angkor), Dede Johnston (Ariston), Shelley Long (Ariston, Lynn Griffin Spirit Award), Laurie Copple (Eccowasin), and Vanessa Draper (Triad).

CLUB AND CLASS SPIRIT AWARDS

V. Draper, K. Campbell, K. Duvier, A. Rich.

A person can contribute to the spirit of her class in many ways: class games, class plays, projects, etc. Katie, Karen, Vanessa, and Amy were chosen by their classes as fine examples of class spirit, all around participation, and class enthusiasm.

MIDDLE SCHOOL HONOR DAY

Honor Day is probably the day that the eighth grade class most anxiously awaits. It is their stepping stone from Middle School memories to new experiences in the Upper School. The eighth grade class is recognized as a whole, and the outstanding achievements of its members are acknowledged. This year, after advice from Mrs. Neale to be imaginative, creative, and to dare to be different, each graduate received her certificate of merit from Dr. Daugh W. Smith. Having successfully completed the Middle School, the Eighth Grade Class of 1974 thus stands as a promising Class of 1978.

SOPHOMORE PLAY

This year's Sophomore Play was The Wonderful Adventures of Don Quixote. Pam Pack did an excellent acting job as the deluded Don Quixote who sets out upon adventures along with Sancho Panza (Mary Hawkins), much to the dismay of his niece Antonia (Mary Margaret Macey). Finally, Dr. Carrasco (Joyce Johnson) disguises himself as the imaginary Knight of the White Moon, and he and Don Quixote have a sword fight. (It was amazing that neither Joyce nor Pam ended up shredded.) But Don Quixote loses the duel, goes back to his home and his niece, and lives happily ever after.

LADY OF THE HALL

What qualities do students look for in a girl whom they will select as Lady of the Hall? They look for abstract yet somewhat tangible qualities as leadership, dedication, enthusiasm, and loyalty. This year the student body chose Lee Ann Thornton as the girl who best represented these qualities. Lee Ann was President of the Student Council this past year and has shown her capability as a leader. She has also been recognized in the past as a leader, for she was vice-president of her junior class. She has been popular with the younger classes, for she was George Washington in her junior year. Under her guidance, many new ideas have been given impetus and thus the school has expanded into community and social activities. Lee Ann is worthy of this honor and we feel her contributions to the school will last for a long time to come.

THE KATIE WRAY AWARD

This year, the Katie Wray Award went to Mary Alice Harbison, the senior with the highest four-year grade point average. Her average, an incredible 3.631, was the highest ever attained at Harpeth Hall. Mary Alice was active in many school organizations, including the Cum Laude Society, and was Editor-in-Chief of this year's MILESTONES. Her intellectual ability has earned her a National Merit Scholarship which she will put to use at Yale. Not surprisingly, Mary Alice has ranked locally, regionally, and nationally in many academic areas, notably French. Her graduation honors included the Presidents' Council English Award, the Pickens Science Award, and the Lucy Fountain Award in French.

CITIZENSHIP BRACELET

Harpeth Hall not only honors students displaying outstanding scholastic, leadership, and athletic ability but also the students with outstanding citizenship. Lynn Farrar received the Citizenship Bracelet, for she was the senior with the highest number of accumulated citizenship points throughout four years at Harpeth Hall. Lynn also received the Quing Award, for her total was over 500 points, an amazing 531 to be exact. She was President of the 1974 Senior Class, a National Merit Commendee, a member of the Cum Laude Society, and had the third highest four-year grade point average in her class. Lynn is truly an outstanding girl and we wish her much success.

SENIOR BANQUET AND STEP SINGING

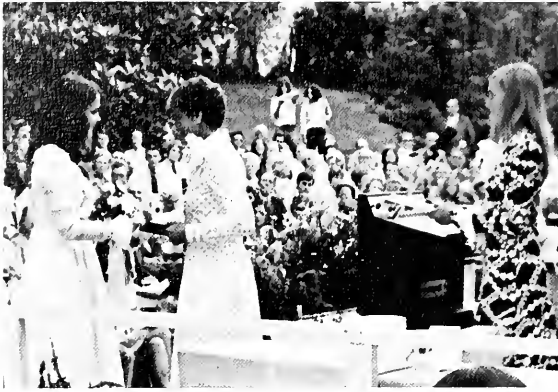

GRADUATION

At Harpeth Hall's beautiful graduation ceremony, the graduates wear long white dresses, and spring flowers add splashes of color. This year, Governor Dunn addressed the graduates, stressing the point that graduation from high school is a prerequisite for a new beginning in life. What is graduation? Walking up to the platform as your name is called, trying not to trip, shaking hands with Miss McMurry, getting your diploma, walking back to your seat. . . you've graduated. As the sun sets, a period of the graduates' lives has ended—or has it?

Isn't life strange?
A word we've arranged
To live by this year
To walk without fear.

Each day passes by
We love as we live
For we all know that we must live, live, live
We must live.
